

Attitude Changes to Hygiene for Washroom Users

As the world bounces back into the New Normal, people are returning to public places. In our most recent survey conducted in early 2022, we have surveyed over 400 respondents in Australia and the results are as follows:

How do the respondents perceive the safety levels of high-traffic public spaces?

Personal hygiene practices have become more prevalent outside of home

Among the common restroom woes in public restrooms

What do washroom users think of public toilets?

But not all TOUCHLESS facilities are preferred...

Despite high desire for touchless technology jet air dryers are not always preferred.

If paper towels are unavailable, respondents would either

Committed to impacting people and how work gets done.

This information is brought to you by Kimberly-Clark Professional.

Connect with our Hygiene experts here.